

For over 60 years, we have been helping creditors realize or recover their investments.

Understanding your objectives

As a lender, it is important to minimize your risks, preserve collateral, and recover your debt as quickly as possible. There are also practical considerations bear in mind, including client relationships with the debtor. At Reynolds Mirth, we offer skillful, practical and cost-effective advice. We also understand the many business factors that need to be taken into consideration.

Lawyers in our collections and foreclosures group have extensive experience in the following areas:

- Commercial foreclosures
- Residential foreclosures
- Landlord's distress
- Security enforcement
- Seizure and sale of collateral
- Unsecured debt collection

Understanding the Alberta context

For over 60 years, we have assisted lenders of all kinds in mortgage foreclosures and actions on collateral and other security. Our depth of knowledge is particularly important in Alberta where the law is different from many other provinces.

Members of our team have appeared at all levels of Court, including the Supreme Court of Canada. They have taught law students and other lawyers. They are leaders within the Canadian Bar Association's Creditor Rights Section. They speak to industry and the legal community in Alberta, across Canada, and beyond.

A stellar track record

Our advice is practical and cost-effective. We continually deliver exceptional service to our clients, and have for decades. We would be pleased to work with you. We invite you to reach out to us to learn more.
